Call for Help.

I, the undersigned, am getting up bedding to help furnish the Old Ladies' Home at Norway, and respectfully solicit the women and children to make a one-half yard square of crazy patchwork and the gentlemen to enclose five cents to buy lining and batting, and I will see that it is faithfully put together and sent to the institution. Please take an interest in what will surely be a blessing to the old ladies and an honor to Oxford county.

Enclose your names that it may be made known who contributed—only one cent an ounce for postage. Yours waiting for work, MRS. LIZZIE P. BRADEN, East Andover, Maine.

A Purgative Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. Howell of Houston, Tex., says: "No better pill can be used than Little Early Risers for constipation, sick headache, etc." Sold by G. R. Wiley.

All who have been accustomed to contribute to the Hall display for the fair, also those who ought to have done so but who have not, are reminded that much of the success of the fair depends upon their efforts in this connection. It is sincerely hoped by the management that all will show a keen interest in this part of the fair and make the display just the best that it is possible to make. Since the unfavorable season forbids an excellent showing of farm products let there be an extra effort on fancy articles and the various things that weather cannot affect. A Surprise Party.

Tuesday afternoon Sept. 1, there was a delightful meeting in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Billings, in honor of the 71st birthday of Mrs. Ellen S. Jones.

A perfect flood of congratulations came by mail, which, to heighten the cheer of the occasion, was brought into the room in a large basket, by the postmaster. There were also many rich and beautiful tokens of love and esteem brought to light, to grace the occasion, the handiwork of friends, together with fifty-five dollars in gold. This was but a symbol, however, of that love of relative and friend, which is, of itself, golden.

Had her companion lived, this would have been the day following their golden anniversary.

Among the near relatives present was sister Mary P. Brackett and son-in-law, Mr. Fred Thompson, a well known and respected citizen of Portland. We are all very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Billings for the generous, hospitable spirit manifested to make this event a success.

At five o'clock, refreshments consisting of various kinds of cake, ice cream, tea, coffee and cocoa were served in a delicate and dainty manner.

And so, finally, it is the wish of the many friends of her whose birthday has been thus kindly remembered, that she may reside with us for many summers yet to come, to cheer us with her kindly word and cheerful manner.

F. E. B.

Lyman W. Russell.

It is with regret that our townspeople learn of the death of Mr. Lyman W. Russell, formerly of Bethel, who died last week at the home of his niece, Mrs. S. S. Abbott, in Denver, Colo., where he has resided for the past two years.

The remains will be brought to Bethel for interment and the funeral will be held from the Union church at Locke Mills, to-morrow, Rev. F. E. Barton of Bethel officiating.

Mr. Russell was born in Newry, Oct. 1, 1826, and was the son of Willoughby and Polly (Bartlett) Russell. In early life he, with his brother Lawson, established a furniture manufactory at Locke Mills and later removed it to Walker's Mills, so called, in Bethel, where he continued in business for many years and resided until he went to Denver. He married January 1, 1855, Lucy Anna, daughter of John and Lucy Egerly of Buxton. His wife died some three years ago.

Mr. Russell was a descendant of the earliest settlers of Bethel, his great-grandfather, Benjamin Russell, having come to Bethel from Fryeburg in 1790, and was the first town clerk, and, it is said, he was the first Justice of the Peace in Oxford county. He was here at the time of the famous Indian raid and Benjamin Russell, Jr., the father of Lyman, was one of the scouts which guarded the settlement after the raid. The Russell family was one of the largest in town and many representatives of it still reside here.

CENTENNIAL POEM.

Read at the Centennial Celebration
by Alma Johnson Judkins.

Turn back, O time, in your wondrous flight
As you rush towards that golden shore;
Turn back with me in my thoughts to-day
A hundred years and more.
On Father Time, cast a magic spell
To-day, O'er my wandering mind;
That I may dream for a little while
Of the days of "Auld Lang Syne."
Lo! A wonderful change comes o'er me now,
And I see as through a haze;
I seem to see our town as it was
Way back in its earliest days.
In a vision broad, I seem to see
A forest dark and grand,
As yet unmarred by the woodman's axe,
Or the touch of a white man's hand.
In that forest deep, through heat and cold
The wild beasts roamed at will,
Or paused to quench their burning thirst
Beside some sparkling rill.
Perchance in some mountain fastness wild,
Or deep in some lowly glade
The red man smoked his pipe of peace
Or wooed his dusky maid.
But a destined change must soon take place
In those forest glades so dear;
Those leafy aisles must soon resound
To the axe of the pioneer.
Those giant trees that have stood for years,
In the breezes gently swelling,
Must soon their stately heads lay low
To form the white man's dwelling.
Away in the distance I see at length
Four sturdy men appear,
Who are destined to make on history's page
A record bright and clear.
These brave, noble men from Andover came,
All the way with purpose true,
To meet and o'ercome the hardships great,
To settle a country new.
There was Hult and Abbott and Chandler and Flint,
Who came first to our Albany hills;
And though they have passed to the other shore,
We cherish their memory still.
And should we forget those sisters four,
The wives of those brave pioneers,
Who lived and loved in their forest home,
Way back in those by-gone years?
Ah, no! their names shall remembered be
Through ages and ages to come,
When life for many here present to-day
Shall for years and years have been done.
We forget not the hardships and perils they met,
In rearing their little flocks;
Thank God, for those mothers so brave and true,
Whose faith was as firm as the rocks.
But we'll linger not on those earlier years,
For traditions all of yore
Will tell you that those things took place
In the year of seventeen eighty-four.
But though those years have passed away
On Time's eternal wings,
Still can we say with one accord,
Found memories round them cling.
To-day we meet with joyful hearts,
Our friends and kindred near?
And with fitting ceremonies we celebrate
The birth of our town most dear.
A hundred years have rolled away
From off Time's wondrous coil,
And to-day we are reaping with lavish hand
The fruits of our forefathers' toil.
'And as we look at the picture
Of those far away vanished years,
With their toll, their sorrows and hardships,
'Their joys, their love and their fears,
'We're wrapped in a fond reminiscence,
As we gaze o'er our lands away.
And we think of the many changes,
Taken place since that far distant day.
Where once on an unbroken forest
The glint of the sunlight lay,
We may now see pleasant, comfortable homes,
And well tilled farms to-day.
'The roads were once mere bridle paths,
That ran o'er hill and hollow;
Perhaps the automobiles of our time,
Might find them hard to follow.
The farming of those olden days
Was done in a primitive way;
The farmer mowed his grass with a scythe
And with a hand-rake, raked his hay.
But now with our wonderful mowing machines,
And our horse rakes close behind,
Methinks could the old-time farmer come back,
A very great change he'd find.
The houses then were built of logs,
Close clinked with moss between;
Inside perchance was a sanded floor,
All spotted, neat and clean.
'The cooking was done by an open fire
Built up in a fire-place wide,
And the cross-legged table and three-legged stool,
In the kitchen stood side by side.
But now we have our modern stoves,
And furniture so grand,
And many other new styled things,
The best that's in the land.
But we're not a bit more happy
Or contented with our lot,
'Than were those old-time settlers,
Within their lowly cot.
But the children they reared in those cabin homes,
Were a strong and sturdy lot.
Went out from those humble cot.
For of doctors and lawyers and ministers too,
We've sent out a goodly share;
And we know that wherever they labor to-day,
A worthy part in life's battle they'll bear.
There's a daughter too, of whom we would speak,
Who acted an honored part,
As city missionary in a sister State
She wrought with hand and heart.
'With the poor and the needy and those seeking for light,
She labored from sun to sun;
But now she has gladly gone home to receive
Her loving Father's "Well done."

Scrofula

Few are entirely free from it.
It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood.
It may then produce irregularity of the stomach and bowels, dyspepsia, catarrh, and a tendency to consumption before manifesting itself in much cutaneous eruption or glandular swelling.
It is best to be sure that you are quite free from it, and for its complete eradication you can rely on
Hood's Sarsaparilla
The best of all medicines for all humors.

There are other sons and daughters
Of whom we are thinking to-day.
Who are laboring in different professions,
At home, and far away.
But I cannot mention them all
In the short space of time that is mine;
Suffice it to say, "On their life work
May God's blessing ever shine."
Ah! the trusty sons and daughters,
Who've gone from these hillside homes,
We remember them all with pride to-day
Wherever they may roam.
We welcome you back to your own native soil,
All you who have wandered away,
And with hearts full of love to you we extend
A warm, hearty greeting to-day.

Communication.

Sparta, Wis., Aug. 11, 1903.
To my old friends in Albany:

It is with regret that I am not able to be with you to enjoy the festivities for which you have met, the celebration of the Centennial of the organization of Albany. It would be a great pleasure to meet so many of my early associates as I trust are gathered on this occasion.

It is with much pleasure that I recall my early days of youth and young manhood spent in your midst. The sight of your grand old hills and the early associations which cluster around them would bring you to my heart were I there.

The success in life which has been achieved by many of the young men of my time, I attribute chiefly to the good moral and spiritual instructions of the early times.

In my mind's eye I can see the old church building as it used to stand, and on Sunday mornings were gathered whole families of Lovejoys, Haskells, Cummingses, Flints, Jordans, Wardwells, Hutchins, Shedd, Abbotts, Lawrences, Clarks, Saunders, Hunts and many others. The ministers gave them the Gospel straight from the shoulder as they understood it, and judging from the results, it was the kind that helped to frame strong characters. I sometimes wonder at the many virtues possessed by those old settlers and the few failings, as I search for the young men of my time. I find many have filled positions of prominence. From the Haskells, went out a missionary to Turkey; from the Goulds, a surgeon in the army; from the Cummingses, a minister of the gospel. afterward a professor in a Theological seminary; from the Browns a host of teachers. I remember the patriotism of Albany in the time of the Civil war. She sent out her quota of soldiers and raised her bounties.

May the citizens of Albany always be as true and loyal to their country and their God, as were the old-time settlers, is the wish of your sincere friend,
ISAAC P. BECKLER.

Sour Stomach.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, sour stomach is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let five hours elapse between meals, and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the sour stomach may be avoided.

THE TRUE "L. F." DID IT

"I feel it my duty to express my gratitude to you for the benefit I have received and am now receiving from your 'L. F.' medicine. Three years ago I was severely troubled with liver complaint. It was impossible for me to partake of the lightest food without distress. At last I was advised by a friend to try 'L. F.' medicine, and after using two bottles, I was perfectly well. It is a perfect medicine which cannot be equaled, and can never be too highly praised."—Prof. J. Bennett, West Farmington, Me.

HOUSEKEEPERS

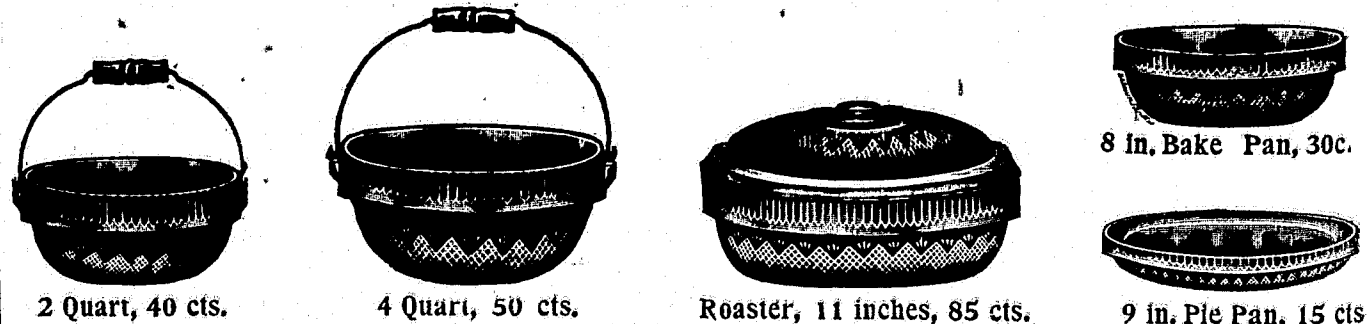

Mrs. S. T. Rohrer, now writing for the Ladies' Home Journal, recommends the use of Earthen Cooking Utensils for the preparation of all dainties, and wherever wholesome food is desired. The following extract has also appeared in the household columns of the Ladies' Home Journal. "The flavor of food baked or boiled in earthenware, is far superior to that of vegetable or animal food cooking in the same way in iron vessels, for the reason that iron is a conductor of heat, while earthenware is a non-conductor. Consequently, food cooked in the latter is rarely, if ever, burned, the degree of heat not varying perceptibly during the process of cooking, thus preserving the flavor of the food as well as uniformity throughout the substance of the meat, vegetables or grain, until the process of cooking is completed." Anyone to be convinced of the

Unsanitary condition of Granite or cheap Enamelled Cooking

Utensils, has only to notice the odor coming from the bottom of such vessels

even after they have been scoured, and are supposed to be scrupulously clean. This odor in itself is enough to cause anyone to investigate the desired qualities of a more sanitary utensil. "The poisonous substances in enamel are Arsenic, Antimony and Lead. There is no doubt that many of the unaccountable illness that have come to the people, especially after eating fruits and vegetables, boiled or stewed in these dishes—tomatoes, rhubarb, apples, strawberries, etc., have their origin in the disintegration of the enamel, and in the absorption by the food and the poisons. Even where the enamel is commonly applied with skill and understanding, it may happen that a workman may spill an undue quantity of poison into the mixture, and it takes but little arsenic or lead in the human system to cause the most serious and life long stomach trouble." Our vessels fill a long felt want; are perfectly healthful, acid proof, and once used, will never be done without.

The special features of our kettles are first and foremost, that it is an ideal Cooking Kettle, suitable for any purpose, and with reasonable use will last longer, and give better satisfaction than any kettle you can purchase; in fact, it is the only earthen kettle that contains fire proof qualities that can be called such. It is mechanically perfect, with a special ventilated bottom, which permits the free circulation of air; consequently, prevents the uneven heating which is the cause of disaster in patterns of cooking ware that have heretofore been offered to the public. It is made exceptionally light, and is really the only sanitary kettle sold. Cooks evenly, never burns. Its lining cannot scale, and in cooking neither can the contents become tainted, or discolored. In the cooking of fruits, especially for canning, it is invaluable, and would be well worth its cost if only used one season. You will find that your fruit will never sour, and if properly sealed, will keep just as well a year afterwards, as the day it was canned. They can also be used in the preparation of food for the sick, and are highly recommended by the foremost Hospitals in the country and abroad. It is not a vessel for special occasions, but is always ready, clean and wholesome, and can be used for any purpose whether for boiling cabbage or the rarest dainties. They are made in two sizes, 2 and 4 quarts.

Our Roaster is a vessel that must not be lost sight of by the economical housekeeper. It appeals to every man and woman, and where once used, will never be done without. In any ordinary roaster, a six pound roast will actually shrink to about four pounds when ready for the table, while if prepared in our roaster, the shrinkage is hardly perceptible. The meat is not dried up on the edges, has all of the juices, and is tender and more delicious than any roast you have ever eaten.

The Pie Pan needs no introduction in the American Household. It is a well known fact that the old stone Pie Pans are the best obtainable. The crust will bake crisp, and without any danger of burning. And again, it is unnecessary to remove the pie from the dish on account of it becoming soggy on the bottom. The pie may remain in one of our pans until used with the assurance that the crust will be as crisp and flaky as the day it came from the oven.

The Bake Pans contain all the advantages mentioned above. Are suitable for baking bread, cake, escalloped oysters, puddings, and any use to which a vessel of this kind can be put, with the assurance at all times, that your food will not be tainted or burned. They have fire proof qualities that are not possessed by any other Cooking Ware, and for ordinary use, a set of ware will last a life time.

PICKEREL AT A WEDDING

The Justice Insisted on Landing His Big Fish.

THEN HE TIED THE KNOT

Comedy as Well as Tragedy Is Eternal
All Over the World—Story of the Justice of the Peace—All Ends Well.

There is always something to see, to hear, or to learn, wherever you go. The eternal tragedy, the eternal comedy, go all over the world. Yesterday Art showed me a farmhouse, where a few months ago a discontented soul killed his wife and himself, shooting his wife while she held a three-months-old baby in her arms. "We were going to lynch him then," said Art artlessly, "but as I rode through the edge of the wood back of the house I saw him lying there looking at us. He was dead. He had shot himself three times. Nerve, wasn't he?"

Again, as we rode on, he showed me a little house by the roadside. "Old woman lives there, eighty-five years old," said he. "The town keeps her. Her husband died a while ago, and she can't run the farm. She used to be an English noblewoman years ago, and she ran away with the coachman and came to America. They lived here a long while. I guess she was an English noblewoman all right, too, for once in a while she comes down to town and gets a pint of alcohol, and she drinks it straight, and never bats an eye."

But, as I was going to say, I saw an odd-looking fly in Art's collection, a combination of squirrel hackle and apparently quill and silk body. Art said that fly was a very good one, very hard to wear out and very useful on the local streams. "The fellow that makes them lives here," said he. "His name's Hubbell. He's the Justice of the Peace." I somehow liked the sound of Hubbell, J. P., and presently looked into the matter. The room of R. W. Hubbell, Justice of the Peace, is more angling shop than justice shop, and here I learned how these very killing local flies are made, having a long talk over these and kindred subjects.

"I find that early in the spring this white silk grub I tie, with a bit of worm on the end, will kill trout before they will rise to the fly. My first fly is the black gnat—but you see I tie it different from any black gnat you ever saw. The next is what I call my Morning Belle, squirrel hackle and green body, and so. Then I make a mosquito, with gray body, and here's a grasshopper with yellow and brown body and gray squirrel hacles—I never use any feathers in any of my fly-tying. I'm proud of my grasshoppers. You don't have to chase 'em, and they don't come off. They're better than the real thing."

"Fishing?" said the justice, tipping back judiciously. "Well, it's more important than anything else, sometimes if not all the time. But there's some folks who don't seem to understand that. Now, not long ago I had a young fellow and a girl up before me. They'd been engaged, but had a falling out, and I guess the fellow was going to leave the girl because she changed her mind. I knew the pickerel were biting out here in the mill pond, and it was time to be out, so I heard the case fast as I could, lined the young fellow, sent 'em all out, and went fishing. In less'n'n' hour I heard some one hollerin', and saw a fellow motioning, over the bank. It was the town marshal. I didn't pay any attention to him, for I didn't want to be disturbed, but bimby he motioned so hard I started over towards him, and just as I did I got a bite, and hooked a big pickerel. At last I heard what the town marshal wanted. 'Say!' says he, 'them folks wants to git married!'"

"Well, why don't they, then?" says I.

"'But they want you to do it,' says he. 'Wouldn't that cramp you? Here I'd just fined him, and now I was busy.'"

"There ain't no hurry about that," said I. "I thought maybe she'd change her mind again. All this time that pickerel was just chargin' round, and I had all I could do to keep him out of the weeds."

"They can't wait!" hollers the town marshal. That made me mad. Couldn't wait! Here I'd just fined the man! "You go on back an' tell 'em they got to wait!" says I to the town marshal. "I'm busy, and I allow it's a sight more important for me to get this pickerel 'n it is for them to get married." So I went right on and played my fish, and at last I got him in the boat. He was a beauty. Then I went on and married 'em, but not before. I want to tell you. Some folks are just naturally unreasonable."—Forest and Stream.

Editorial Modesty.
The Graham News man says he could not find the editor of the Jacksboro News at the picnic. He probably noticed a tall, handsome young man wearing a magnificent smile, who strutted around the grounds with the prettiest girl there. That was us—Jacksboro (Tex.) News.

The French monument which is to be erected on the field of Waterloo is now complete. It consists of an immense eagle mounted on a granite pedestal.

There is this consolation about it—the young man who never cracks a smile is not likely to bore us with a cracked laugh when he is old.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SAGE ADVICE FROM THE DRIVER.

Pilot of Fifth Avenue 'Bus Recents Blame for Passenger's Error.
The Fifth Avenue stage driver is usually endowed with a strong sense of humor. Whether the following "bull" was intentional or not does not appear.

An elderly woman entered the stage at a downtown point and asked to be let down at Forty-ninth street. That point was duly reached and the driver pulled up while the woman alighted. To his surprise she shook her umbrella at him and cried:

"And now I should like to know what you mean by carrying me a mile past my stopping place?"

"But, lady, you asked to be let off at Forty-ninth street."

"Well, I meant Twenty-ninth street, and, even if I didn't say so, you ought to know where I live, as I ride in your old 'buses every week."

"Well, ma'am," replied the driver, "I've been driving these here stages for going on ten years, and I ain't never been accused of carrying a passenger past the corner at which they wanted to get off. It's my opinion that if you don't know where you live you'd better move."—N. Y. Mail and Express

Good-Byes at $1 a Time.
The great ship was just about to sail away when the worried-looking business man hurried down the gang plank and approached a man who looked as if he had considerably more time than money to spare.

"Like to earn a half a dollar?" he said.
"Can the moon shine," was the oracular reply. "How's it to be done?"
"You see that lady dressed in black, standing at the ship's side? Well, that is my wife. She will expect me to stand for twenty minutes and wave my handkerchief to her until the ship is out of sight. I have no time to waste; my wife is very short-sighted, so it will do just as well if you take my place."

"Suppose she looks though an opera glass?"
"Bury your face in your handkerchief as if overcome with emotion."

"That will cost half-a-dollar extra."
"All right! Time is more valuable to me than money. Throw in a few hand-kisses."

The money changed hands. The merchant's business was attended to, and his wife got her farewell. What wonders are worked by strategy!

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

MAGALLOWAY.

Jotham S. Chapman and Weld Smith of Bethel have been engaged for two weeks in painting the new church building at Magalloway. The building is a surprise to all who see it, and architect and painters receive much deserved praise. The building is 30x36. The roof is painted red. The sides are two shades of terra-cotta with white trimmings. The same painters have been engaged to finish the church at Wilson's Mills which is similar in design to the church at the lower settlement. The two churches will be dedicated in October, and it is hoped that many visitors will attend.

Several of the foremen have already gone into their camps with their crews.

Those who work up the Diamond had the privilege of crossing on the new bridge which was built this summer by S. P. Lary, instead of fording the river as heretofore.

At a recent meeting at Wilson's Mills conducted by Rev. Edw. A. Tuck, every family except one was represented. The attendance was 85.
